To mark the 150th jubilee of Anton Chekhov's birth (17 January 1860), the Library prepared a large number of textual and bibliographic materials on his works, critiques of Chekhov's plays etc, which were presented on the portal «Anton Pavlovich Chekhov» and an exhibition under the name «The Human being — it is that in what he believes» (Человек — это то, во что он верит. А.П. Чехов).

The design concept of a new building for the RSL is under development. The sketch draft of the RSL Digital Library was prepared for its new building. The new building should be situated very close to the present complex of RSL buildings and is planned to be open in 2015.

According to conceptual engineering of the new buildings the total size should be about 83K m². The RSL launched the preparation of the All Russian Libraries Census being the main coordinator of this forthcoming work.

During the whole period of the existence of books, federal libraries, museums and universities have used the concepts of «rare» and «precious». The term «Book Monument» introduces the notion of most valuable objects of cultural heritage. The notion is adopted and approved on the legal level.

The Federal Law «On bringing in change in the Federal Law “On Librarianship”» obliges all institutions to maintain the Register of Book Monuments, recording single items as well as collections. Among the main goals of the programme are: creation of the united distributed collection of book monuments; creation of a digital All-Russian Register of Book Monuments; discovery, including research description and popularization of the collection of book monuments.

In compliance with Part IV of the Civil Code of the RF, since 2008 the RSL has been using the system DefView with protected viewing of documents, which assures functioning of the Digital Dissertation Library.

The RSL in partnership with the Russian Library Association, Interregional Committee on cataloguing, the Russian National Library and the Russian Book Chamber prepared the «Russian cataloguing rules» in 2 parts: P.1 «General stipulation and rules», P. 2 «Special cataloguing rules for specific types of documents». And one volume publication revised is considered now as the best research publication in 2009.

7. Examples of collaboration between the reporting library and other national collecting institutions (libraries, archives and museums):

Close partnership relations have been developed (in the form of a Collaboration Council) with the Russian National Library (Saint Petersburg) and the Presidential Library, named after the first President of the RF Boris Yeltsin.

Collaboration between the RSL (Moscow) and the RNL (Saint Petersburg) on a regular annual basis has been maintained.

OCLC Question Point / and Ask a Librarian were developed separately but with regular consultation during the year.
